Dear Taro,

How are you? Even though it's been a couple of years since you spent the summer with us as an exchange student, it seems like only yesterday. I imagine that, like me, you must be a high school student now.

The reason that I am writing to you is because for one of my classes I need to write a report on a different country. I've chosen to write it on Japan, and I thought that you might be able to give me some advice on what I should include in my report.

In my report, I need to describe a food from that country. I also need to include a discussion about an important historical or cultural site—it needs to be something more specific than just a city.

If you could give me some possible ideas about what might be good to write about, I would really appreciate it.

Thank you, and I hope to get a chance to see you soon.

Yours,

Sam
